What is NLP?

Neurolinguistic Programming is a practical tool kit for learning and change. It's not a science or a model or a theory. It's a collection of practices you can use to manage yourself, set goals, and connect with other people.

All human beings learn and change by combining what they notice (neurology) with what they think it means (language). People trained in NLP are more self-aware, more observant, and more capable of considering alternate meanings for the information in front of them.

NLP Master Practitioner Certification

Our Master Practitioner certification has been adapted to maintain high quality learning states while on Zoom.

As a Practitioner, you learn to explore your own feelings, experiences, and patterns while becoming more accurate in your observation of others.

When you progress to the Master Practitioner certification, you use your awareness of state, purpose and language to build influence.

What does influence mean?

- recognizing the strategies people use so that you can change or replicate them
- telling stories that change the way people think
- managing time so that you achieve your results
- leading others into useful states

This kind of influence means mastering the basic change pattern so that you can adapt to succeed in more situations.

Why Zoom?

We have heard all the reasons people resist another Zoom meeting. But we are not like other Zooms. We are so engaging, you'll forget you're on the computer.

Convenience

The easier it is to come to a training, the more likely you are to come. We will train you wherever you are and you can always come back for more.

Diversity

It's expensive to travel for training. Now we have people from all over Canada and the United States. We can learn more from our diversity.

Intensity

We've fallen in love with the focus in our Zoom sessions. There's just you and your partner in a breakout room, and you'll connect quickly.

Mastery

The lower the cost in terms of time, money, and effort, the more likely people are to return for practice. We want our clients to master the skill set.

The Schedule

All six days of the course must be completed to earn certification.

If you miss a day, you can complete it at a future session.

All days run from 10 am to 5:30pm Eastern

Season	First Day	All Dates

Why NLP Canada Training?

For more than 20 years, we have been working to make NLP better. Where most companies are good at passing on what someone else developed, we're working to improve NLP using the best current information about how the brain, body and mind work together.

Linda Ferguson

Linda Ferguson has been with NLP Canada Training since 2003, and has owned the company since 2011. She holds a PhD in English Literature and teaches at Sheridan College.

The Community

Graduates of NLP Canada Training's practitioner and master practitioner certifications connect, collaborate and embrace differences. They work together so everyone gets better.

The Evolution

Courses at NLP Canada Training are updated about every three years. They continue to evolve using the best information from science and the best practices developed through testing in the community.

Read all about it

Linda Ferguson has published three books about using NLP to build your awareness, adapt to changing circumstances, and stay focused on what you value and what you want next. Her most recent work is Shifts: A Toolkit for A Better You. Order it online from Indigo or Amazon.

Read in short sections

This book is written in short, useful sections. Skip through the table of contents to find what you need when you need it. Or keep it on the nightstand and learn a little before you sleep.

Don't trust: Test

Some of our most dedicated NLP practitioners started as skeptics. Test these ideas against your own experience. Don't just scan. Take the time to do the exercises.

The pieces fit

You don't have to read the whole book to see that it brings together ideas from the Enneagram, narrative therapy, strategic communication and mindfulness. They all form one coherent whole. and they all work best together.
